Political Interview

In his peripatetic way The Vagrant has been aware that a political campaign of the first magnitude has been in progress, but he has not felt called on to dip his pen into the political ink which so many other newspaper writers were using. With election day itself and its positive disclosures so near at hand, The Vagrant would not now enter on the subject of national politics, were it not for the fact that quite unexpectedly he had a chance to interview the Wandering Jew on that subject. The Vagrant and the Wandering Jew first met, as some readers may recall, many weeks ago on the way to Clesson's River in the morning. The Wandering Jew views human affairs with such disinterested detachment that it seems to The Vagrant that his comments on the present American political scene merit repetition, even though The Vagrant himself does not completely agree with him.

Election Prediction

"Judging this presidential campaign solely by normal human reactions to a given set of stimuli," said the Wandering Jew, "it should be fairly easy to predict the outcome. On that basis I should confidently expect the defeat of Hoover and the Republican party, an overthrow which might duplicate the rout that they suffered in 1912 when Taft and Theodore Roosevelt split the Republican vote and the Democrats under Wilson slipped in between. This prediction carries with it, of course, an indication of victory for Governor Roosevelt and the Democrats, but that victory, in my opinion, will not be so decisive and emphatic for the Democrats as their defeat will be for the Republicans."

Prediction is Qualified

"Remember that I have qualified this prediction by the statement that it is based on normal human reactions as I have observed them. In that basis the Democratic victory should be robbed of some of its strength and significance by the number of votes which will be cast for Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate, and even for the positively radical parties and movements that have candidates in the field. The accuracy of these predictions will be modified insofar as American human nature, under economic adversity, fails to respond in the way which my own observation of older races in older nations has caused me to consider as being normal. That is a very important modification of the prediction, for prosperity and widespread well being have been the established order of things throughout all of the American national life and adversity has been usually so briefly intermittent that American human nature has developed reactions which, while doubtless temporary, may at this time defect it somewhat from revealing the same responses that could be more confidently predicted elsewhere."

Herbert Hoover

"What I may term, in the psycho-analytical jargon of the day, the 'prosperity complex' of the American people is all in favor of President Hoover and the Republican party. That is the influence which has given that party preponderant popular support for the past 70 years. A great majority of Americans, like Napoleon's private soldiers, who each had a marshal's baton in his knapsack, like to consider themselves as being potential millionaires. They cling to and support the system which creates, promotes and protects great private fortunes. Each one who expects and hopes himself to possess wealth some day naturally condones the social and moral implications of this prevailing system of its distribution, and enjoys sharing the view-point and repeating the shibboleths of the rich. This depression has not yet eradicated that deeply rooted instinct and preference of the American people. It has shattered the aureate dreams of many for their own personal acquisition of riches, but not their hopes for their children. If this election had come two years ago, or possibly last November, the Republicans could have won in spite of the depression, so strong was the American desire for a return of unchanged prosperity and unrestricted individual opportunity for acquisition. At present, however, whose first greenhouse, built on Main Line in 1882, has grown to be one of the largest nurseries in this section.

50th Anniversary of Albrecht Nurseries

From Small Start Business Has Grown to One of Biggest on Main Line

FIRST JOB $18 MONTH

The 50th anniversary of the founding of the John Albrecht Nurseries, along the Main Line, is being marked at this time. The story of the development of this enterprise, one of the most important on the Main Line, is a "success story" of unusual interest.

At the age of 14 John Albrecht worked with his father, who was head gardener on the country estate of John Cameron, a retired Southern gentleman, who owned many farms around St. Petersburg, Va. Here he learned the business of gardening and farming.

Seven years later, in 1881, Mr. Albrecht saw an advertisement for a position by a florist near Philadelphia. He answered the "ad" and accepted a job at $18 a month and board. In 18 months he had saved $40. With this he started his own business on a small plot which he rented near the Barmouth Station, Pennsylvania Railroad. In that year the buildings dedicated to represent the State for the Centennial celebration in Fairmount Park were being demolished. The window sash of these buildings were purchased by Mr. Albrecht to build the first greenhouse, which was made 50 feet long, and was heated by a flue pipe.

After using rented ground for 13 years two acres were purchased by Mr. Albrecht on Righter's Ferry road, near Belmont avenue. Here a range of greenhouses was built at the rate of one a year.

In 1913 six and one-half acres were purchased on Montgomery avenue, at Meetinghouse lane, Narberth, and during the first few years small quantities of evergreens were imported from Holland and Belgium. This was the beginning of the nursery, which is now operated in conjunction with the florist business.

In 1921 five and one-half acres were purchased on the north side of Montgomery avenue, opposite the nursery grounds. Here 12 greenhouses were built, where flowers and plants are grown for the three flower shops.

In 1922 the shop in Ardmore, known as the Primrose Flower Shop, was purchased. In the future this store will be known as Albrecht's Flower Shop. The other stores are at Narberth and Wayne. In addition, Albrecht has two other nursery grounds—the old General Green farm, near Paoli, and a tract at State road and Woodbine avenue, Cynwyd.

The present corporation consists of John Albrecht, president; John Albrecht, Jr., secretary, and C. J. Albrecht, treasurer.

Mulieres' Dance Was Successful Affair

Mrs. Isaac McHose Wins Prize for Prettiest Costume at Masquerade

NEXT DANCE IS NOV. 25

The first dance of the series of six sponsored by the Mulieres was held last Friday in Elm Hall. The dances are sponsored by hostesses at each dance. There were 60 present.

Everyone reported a pleasant evening and all are looking forward to the next one, which will be held on Friday evening, November 25. The hostesses for this dance are Mrs. E. C. Griswold, Mrs. Robert Dothard, Mrs. Robert Bennett, Mrs. E. R. Alburger, of Merion, and Mrs. Arthur Goldsmith, of Wynnewood.

The prize for the prettiest costume at the masquerade dance last Friday was awarded to Mrs. Isaac McHose, who was dressed as a Russian, in a costume of red satin, trimmed in white fur. She wore a head dress of pearls and Russian boots.

The prize for the funniest costume was won by John Andujar, of Philadelphia, who appeared as a tramp.

Both prizes were donated by Maurice Fried, manager of the Narberth Theatre, and were books of ten tickets admitting the bearer to the shows. These dances are seventy-five cents single admission or one dollar and a half for a couple.

All the proceeds of these dances above the expenses are given to the Narberth Fire Company.

John Timm, Old Resident, Dies Suddenly at Office

John W. Timm, of 309 N. Narberth avenue, a resident of Narberth for the past 26 years, died suddenly on Wednesday. He was 69 years old.

Connected with the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Company for 55 years and head of its commission section, Mr. Timm was the oldest employee in point of service of that organization. He died a few minutes after he had posed for a photograph with 16 other employees who had been with the company for 35 years or more. Mr. Timm was born in Philadelphia and joined the company in 1877, when he was 14 years old.

Mr. Timm is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna Campbell Timm; three sons, John, Jr., Richard and Charles; and two daughters, Mrs. Carl Boyer, Jr., of Churchville, and Miss Katherine Timm.

Post's Armistice Day Service is Sunday

Keighton to Deliver Address at Baptist Church in Evening

BANQUET TICKETS CUT

Preparations have been completed for the annual Armistice Day service of the Harold D. Speakman Post, American Legion, of Narberth.

It will be held this year on Sunday evening at the Baptist Church at 7.45 P. M., instead of at the theatre, as has been the custom for the past few years.

The Post's chaplain and pastor of the church, the Rev. Robert E. Keighton, will deliver the address. Members of the Post will assemble at the church shortly before the appointed hour and enter in a body.

It was announced yesterday by Commander William H. Durbin that the speaker at the Legion's annual Armistice Day banquet next Friday will be George W. Elliott, of Overbrook. Mr. Elliott is former Director of Public Safety in Philadelphia and at present is secretary of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce.

In keeping with the times the price of the banquet has been reduced to one dollar and fifty cents. Jack Kelly, Olympic oarsman, is expected to be present as well as an entertainer, Marios Chois, proprietor of the Arcadia Restaurant, will be the caterer.

Tickets may be procured from any member of the Post. Since the Legion Room's seating capacity is limited, men of the community are urged to make sure of their place for this annual event.

Charles Greyer is chairman of the Banquet Committee, which also includes A. Perry Redifer, Jr., tickets; Arthur L. Cooke, entertainment, and John C. Nash, catering.

On Armistice Day Ralph S. Dunne, who was a member of the U. S. Government Intelligence Service during the War, will speak at the auditorium program at the Narberth Public School.

Thomas C. Schaeffer Was Club Speaker

Assistant Headmaster at Montgomery School Discusses Election

REPORT ON FEDERATION

Thomas C. Schaeffer, assistant headmaster of Montgomery School and instructor of English, was the speaker at the Women's Community Club of Narberth on Tuesday afternoon.

He gave a resume of the two candidates of the major parties and the issues of the forthcoming election. As an illustration he spoke of the issue on public utilities, in which Hoover opposes government ownership, which, according to him, would only result in a powerful bureaucracy and the attitude of Governor Roosevelt on this subject, who, he said, is also opposed to government ownership, believing in it only when utilities cannot be brought to terms. Mr. Schaeffer also gave both sides of the big issue of reconstruction and the relief of unemployment as well as a number of other well-known issues.

He also spoke on the records of each of the candidates and their popularity in the various parts of the (Continued on Page Eight)

Mrs. John D. Pennington, of Cynwyd, will sing campaign songs and sample ballots and literature will be available. The meeting is sponsored by the same group which formed the Hoover Club in the Borough four years ago.

Peters Predicts Big Republican Majority

G. O. P. Rally in Borough Attended by Good-Sized Audience

JOHNSON HONOR GUEST

An impressive majority for the entire Republican ticket was predicted by Representative Fred C. Peters, Ardmore, speaking at a rally held last Friday night in the Narberth Theatre Hall.

The meeting, attended by a good-sized audience, which turned out to hear the Republican candidates and pay tribute to the County leader, Charles Johnson, was sponsored by the Johnson Republican Club of Narberth.

Mr. Peters, who is a candidate for re-election to the State Legislature, lauded the economy program of President Hoover and prophesied a majority of over 5000 votes for the G. O. P. ticket from the Main Line section of the County.

J. William Ditter, Republican candidate for Congress from the new Montgomery County District, pointed out the necessity of supporting the Republican ticket so that safe and sane measures would be approved.

Robert F. Wood, Narberth Councilman, stressed the necessity of getting out the Republican vote in the Borough. "It is now up to you voters," he said, "to see that Narberth is in the Republican column on November 8th."

Mr. Johnson was the guest of honor at the meeting, which was presided over by Henry A. Smith, president of the Johnson Republican Club of Narberth.

Other speakers were Elmer L. Menges and F. W. Smilie, both assistant district attorneys of Montgomery County.

Club Group Meets 14th

The International Relations Group of the Women's Community Club of Narberth will hold a meeting on November 14 at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Leon Webster Melcher, on Meeting House lane, at 2 P. M. The group will also hold a meeting on November 21, when there will be a speaker on China.

Rotary Speaker

Big Hoover Vote is Anticipated in Boro

Majority of 200 for Republican Ticket is Predicted

LOOK FOR HEAVY VOTING

If predictions run true to form Narberth's three polling places will be crowded with larger throngs on Tuesday than visited them at the general election in 1928.

A majority of 2000 votes in the Borough for Hoover and the Republican ticket was the prophecy made yesterday by Henry A. Smith, president of the Charles Johnson Republican Club, of Narberth.

"We expect the same splendid Republican majorities as the party received in 1928," he said. "We have a united Republican organization and we anticipate the biggest Republican vote in the Borough's history."

In the election of 1928 Hoover polled 1823 votes to 539 for Smith. The Second District evidenced the heaviest vote then with an even 800 for Hoover. The First District gave Hoover 589, and the Third, 434.

Mrs. Margaret G. Town, active Republican worker, expressed the opinion that "Hoover will have as many votes here as he received four years ago."

In the Gubernatorial election of 1930 the Borough gave a majority of 308 votes to John M. Hemphill, Democratic and Liberal candidate, but of the 956 he received, but 524 were on the Democratic ticket. Pinchot's 648 votes showed that Narberth was still Republican, even though Liberal votes gave his opponent the majority.

Buck Stars in L. M. Win Over Abington

Maroon Back's Passes and Dashes Writ Large in 20-6 Victory

ZENGEL INTERCEPTS PASS

There were no Ichabod Cranes on Pennypacker Field last Saturday to run in fear when a galloping ghost from Abington took his pumpkin-head under his arm and started his annual gallop in a futile effort to frighten the mounted Maroons.

Pennypacker Field is no Sleepy Hollow, and any legends pertaining to the superiority of the Gallopin' Ghosts were mere legends and nothing more.

Lance Corporal Bob Taylor, from his new position at guard, nudged his signal-calling tackle, Signor Dominic Polilli, in the ribs every now and then, and same Signor Polilli brought forth each time an important coup which resulted in a Lower Merion touchdown.

A disastrous fumble by Halfback Harvey Buck around the defensive thirty-five-yard line, and a misjudged fly ball by Fullback Michael Zengel gave the Abingtonians a much-needed six points.

Lower Merion, 20; Abington, 6. The years will erase the memory of Bucks' lightning-like thrust through the air with a pair of Ryan arms waiting for a football labeled touchdown No. 1; students and Saturday night quarterbacks will fail to remember Mike Zengel's quick recovery of an enemy pass, which he deposited on the one-yard line, for Mr. Buck to carry over for touchdown No. 2; Freshmen will forget as Seniors that this same Buck took the ball forty-six yards off-tackle for a remarkable, soul-satisfying run for touchdown No. 3; but the score, Lower Merion, 20; Abington, 6; will abide in football history as long as sports hounds write the dope. Selah!

Juniors Celebrate Hallowe'en

Next Tuesday

What are the facts on which Main Line voters must make their decision Tuesday? As parties, we may safely assume that there is little difference between the Republicans and the Democrats. Which, then, can do the most for the section of the world in which we live?

Both parties are pledged to liquor reform; both have promised to work us out of the depression. The Republicans have glossed over their failures with a straightforward story of their successes. The Democrats have proposed a lot of crazy schemes which they would be forced to forget immediately if they won. In short, the country as a whole will not be changed much either way. The most conspicuous result of a Democratic victory would be a change of postmasters!

But the industrial East, of which the Main Line is a part, is vitally interested in certain matters which have a partisan slant. In good times and bad the Republicans have espoused a system of protection which is highly important to Philadelphia and thus to the Philadelphians who reside on the Main Line. To throw the control of the nation to a party which has never looked with loving eyes on Pennsylvania would be a rather foolish gesture, if it be made purely because we are sour on present economic conditions.

So much for the national scene. We are also to elect a Congressman. Montgomery County is made up predominantly of Republicans, regardless of shifts at times like these. Without going much further, we must admit that our representative in Washington, serving a Republican population, should be a Republican. Thus we advocate the election of Mr. Ditter. It is not a matter of personalities, for if Mr. Pendleton were on the Republican ticket, we should advocate his election. He is a clean, likeable and capable young attorney—but he is a Democrat.

Mr. Ditter has been accused of being a tool of county leader Johnson, a fact which he himself affirms. It is better that way, for we do not want an individualist to represent us in Washington. The Johnson organization has consistently won the support of the voters, and it gives us good local government. We can trust Johnson's man to carry on Montgomery County's policies in the Capitol.

OT Only
Narberth's Republicans, much to the distress of some of the independent souls in the Borough, have done a splendid job in lining up our square mile of homes for Johnson. Narberth has thus lost a little independence, and the thrill of upsetting the applecart from time to time, but we have gained closer participation in County affairs, and a better share of County funds. Thus, continuing to be practical, regularity has paid.

Finally, the Republicans want to send Mr. Peters back to Harrisburg. He will win, easily. But more than that, he should have a thoroughgoing vote of confidence, for he has represented us well, and with deepening experience, will be more valuable to us.

In brief, a little bit of practical selfishness should influence our vote next Tuesday. If you really must protest, vote for Norman Thomas, and make the protest double-barrelled. To help in the election of a Democrat would be a foolish bit of self-punishment. After all, this is a Republican section!

Where We Stand

The following communication warrants publication in the editorial column, we believe, as it advances a view which may be widespread. Our position is stated, following the letter.

To the Editor of "Our Town:"

While I am not a regular subscriber to your paper, I generally purchase it at the news stand and may, therefore, be regarded as one of your "constant readers."

It is believed you welcome expressions of opinion from your readers for insertion in your columns, and my letter is written with the request that it be published.

It is the opinion of the writer that the most constructive movement that has been made by any citizen of Narberth in recent years is that of Mr. Burns to consolidate the Borough with Lower Merion Township. Mr. Burns and his associates have prepared the most fairly stated and convincing pamphlet in support of their position which I have ever seen in regard to a matter of concern to citizens of a small community, such as ours.

The advantage to parents of children of school age is obvious. To all taxpayers in the Borough the plan offers the great advantage, during these trying times, of a smaller tax burden.

It is surprising to me, as one of your readers, that constructive proposals of this kind do not have your whole-hearted support. An editorial appeared in your last issue of more than a column in length. It did not contain one single sentence or argument adverse to the plan. You, nevertheless, oppose it.

Why?
A newspaper is expected to serve the interests of the citizens of the community in which it is published. Here is the greatest opportunity to be of real help to our readers since your publication was started. Why didn't you hoist the standard of Economy and lead the procession?

Very truly yours,

STEPHEN DUNCAN.

We refer "Constant Reader" Duncan to an editorial which appeared in "Our Town" for October 21, 1932, for further enlightenment regarding our position on the proposed merger.

We hold that it is a matter which the citizens of the Borough must decide for themselves and that our province is to point out the advantages and disadvantages of such a step. The news column of "Our Town" have been opened freely to advocates of the merger and no communications on either side of the question have been barred.

We maintain, however, that the assets and liabilities of community life cannot be measured entirely in terms of tax bills. As was pointed out in the issue of October 21, we agree that the merger proposal is economically sound. But were Narberth merged with Lower Merion, we feel it would lose to a large extent the strong civic spirit and interest in local affairs which has characterized the life of the Borough for a third of a century. Good government is not solely a matter of low tax rates. It requires the intelligent participation of a public-spirited body of citizens and from our observation this spirit is fostered in the Borough of Narberth more than it is in Lower Merion Township.

It is this phase of the matter which we are calling to the attention of our readers so that their decisions may be based on all the evidence possible, not just one side of the question. Our position is interpretive rather than that of special pleader.

Shreds & Patches

there is in operation a deeper seated human instinct to seek a scapegoat for personal annoyance, and many persons will gratify that wish by voting against Hoover without seriously considering the merits of either party. If Hoover wins, it will be due to his own radio addresses, because in them he has been able to speak with force, authority and personal appeal—but especially with force. To some he has sounded like a man on horseback. A victory for him would indicate a long toward fascism."

Franklin Roosevelt

"Governor Roosevelt is going to win in spite of himself," said the Wandering Jew, with impersonal calmness. "Enough people desiring to strike at Hoover are going to vote for Roosevelt to elect him. His popularity curve, that had been slowly ascending, beginning with the Walker hearings, which he conducted with statesman-like poise and firmness, turned in the opposite direction with his evasive and catch-penny statement on the bonus. Out of his own mouth then came confirmation of the principal arguments that had been used against him. Many independents and liberals will vote for him, but with wry-faces and totally lacking the enthusiasm with which they supported Theodore Roosevelt and Wilson. Al Smith knows his own race and his followers as well; he is so admirably fearless, that, in spite of the unfortunate impression which his speeches are making on others, there can be little doubt that he will swing to Roosevelt thousands of votes and possibly some States which otherwise would have gone to Hoover."

Norman Thomas

"Finally, there are Norman Thomas and his Socialists, what about them?" asked The Vagrant. "Thomas will poll the largest Socialist vote ever rolled upon America—at least 3,000,000," replied the Wandering Jew. "The Socialist vote will be considerably larger than the Literary Digest poll indicates for The Digest's straw ballots were mailed principally to owners of automobiles and telephones and obviously did not reach the masses to whom the Socialist arguments are making the strongest appeal. Also, Thomas personally is stronger than his party and his total vote will be much greater than the number of actual converts whom the Socialists have been able to win in this campaign. The Socialists will probably seat four or five Congressmen. But the real significance of the Socialist effort in this campaign has been its apparent success in making headway among the laborers, the intellectual classes and the youth. Of those three, of course, the adherence of youth is the most important end, from Mr. Thomas' point of view, is undoubtedly the greatest justification for the time, effort and money which he and his comrades have vicariously expended in their strenuous campaign.

THE VAGRANT.

Cabrey Vents Views on Republican Rally Here

To the Editor of "Our Town":

The placards said it was a gathering of the faithful and whilst we were not sure of exactly what that meant, we were aware that we might qualify for the designation in some quarters, and so we decided to look in on the great Republican rally which held forth at the Narberth Theatre Hall last Friday evening.

Furthermore, picking on the party, as we are in its present sorry estate, it behooves us to get the facts hot off the griddle, because, after all, a man might be woefully wrong in some of his conclusions and he ought to avail himself of every opportunity to learn the truth. Then, too, at such an auspicious civic occasion one should surely be on hand, for wasn't the King himself coming to visit his subjects, the very first "official" visit, forsooth, and wasn't that highly significant? At any rate, the speakers all night long were saying it was "significant," but none of them took the time to explain why. The best thing to do, probably, is to ask Mr. Johnson himself and we have no doubt our genial gentleman will simply say that he came to Narberth because he was pestered into doing so and that it is hardly fair for these young politicians to be disturbing the serenity and evenings of those who have long since gone grey in the service and who have had their fill of "political rallies" these many years ago.

Up the carpeted steps we went, to be confronted on the threshold by one of the old Al Smith boys, a real stalwart in the valiant days of '28, and what was he doing but giving out high tariff circulars. Well, that was a bit of a shock to begin the evening, but we made the best of it, and proceeded to hie ourselves to an inconspicuous seat on the rear benches. Once there, our fast slipping equilibrium was almost entirely keeled when we beheld still another one of the Happy Warrior's most earnest advocates doing nothing less than conducting the meeting, and with a real gusto which would make one think he actually believed what he was saying. It does show, doesn't it, now, what these Republicans can do once they put their mind on it, and if we don't watch out they're likely to get all of us yet.

Still we stayed on in serious quest of what we did not know and, believe us, we learned it, but the trouble was the fellows who said it didn't know it either and apparently it made no difference to them whether they did or not. Two young lawyers were there and what a fine time they had with themselves. Of course, we all know the junior barristers feel a political fling often helps them to step along in their legal profession, and maybe it does, and so we won't hold them particularly accountable for telling us, among a very great many other things, the following litter of choicest tid-bits:

1—One of the greatest acts of Mr. Hoover was the removal of the marines from Nicaragua, leaving only 1400 behind. That move was epochal, if you happen to remember it, and no doubt you do, but is it possible you don't?

2—The new P. R. R. station at 32nd street is also one of Hoover's outstanding achievements and we'll bet that's something you didn't know.

3—Hoover has guaranteed the right of children to live in America, would you believe it, and joyfully happy was the speaker who let us in on the secret, because, he said with great emotion, he had a child of his own and he had been downright disturbed about her until he heard of the President's stand. We have a right to be six times happier than that neophyte and here's telling him.

4—Did you know your insurance policies would not be worth the paper they were printed on if it had not been for Mr. Hoover, and if you are curious to know how that could be it would suit you better to go on with your business and not be asking so many questions.

5—Another marvelous feat of Mr. Hoover, according to one speaker, was the appointment of Cardozo to the Supreme Court, described as a superb manifestation of executive initiative, and thus our youthful Demosthenes upset completely all that was previously recorded on the subject, which was that the selection was made almost at the point of a gun, held by Borah and other Liberals, thus precluding the benching of another mediocrity of the same ilk as Parker, of North Carolina, whom Hoover vainly attempted to get over early in his administration.

Well, now, don't let us be too smart or appear too clever with the ambitious counsellors, as their interest in the campaign is hardly as genuine as their concern for their own careers, and if they see nothing on their candidate's record to extoll they naturally, lawyer-like, get up a few round things for themselves and who is it can change that hoary old custom in this day and generation?

The same kindly consideration, however, would not be accorded William Ditter. That man essays to sit in the Halls of Congress. He is out to represent a great and important county. He should reasonably give some fair evidence of his ability to serve. If he does not know the requirements of the occasion it is bounden on him to learn them. Instead of that, he elects to be a political bouncer, nothing short of it, if we judge by what we heard. His speech was an insult to the intelligence of this community. It should be rebuked by a heavy vote for his opponent. Not one word did he utter which would establish his own stand on any question of consequence. Not a syllable or murmur came from him on prohibition. He let the whole subject go by default, the same as he did every other question on which the voters had the right to hear. It is altogether inexplicable as to why the man ever came amongst us.

One speaker failed to arrive and that made our local Robert Fellows Wood fill the gap, which he did in a very attractive fashion. Our friend's newspaper discernment never deserts him and our guess is that he was very much aware of the evening's collapse. He stressed the need of more Republican votes and conveyed that, through thick and thin, party regularity should always be observed if satisfactory results were to be accomplished.

What does he mean by "parties" and what is the capacity or obligation of the average American as two or more sets of practical politicians present themselves for our suffrage? Is a national party much more than that, just a group of practical politicians, and if not, what else is involved? The Democrats now have the most experienced and best equipped set of politicians. The country may, therefore, expect better service from them as a consequence. The Republicans are shorter of real stuff than they have ever been since we were men.

Hoover is not a politician and has gone too far to learn. Many voters, particularly women, will laud that fact and not know what they are talking about. The chief reason why Mr. Hoover has fallen down so lamentably on his Presidential job is because he is not a politician. His Cabinet could not help him to any appreciable degree, because not a single member of it was highly skilled in that fine edged science of government in which only politicians can exert. It is a science which cannot be learned in mines, counting rooms, or promoters' offices. It must be tediously acquired by actual and intelligent and teeming experience with flesh and blood people, not by an aloofness from them. Lacking that kind of extensive and exact experience, no national Administration can hope to come through successfully, except in the most routine of eventless eras, and we have never yet had such a thing in this America.

All this has been so since the beginning, and ever shall be, because it is in the essential nature of human things that it should be so.

J. J. CABREY.

All of Us

To the Editor of "Our Town":

The time has arrived when a warning should be sounded to arouse, still more, all of us to the vital importance of the coming national election. The outcome will exert a very marked influence, not only within but far beyond the boundaries of this nation.

It is always difficult during a great political campaign for many voters to compose themselves sufficiently to think clearly and logically and then vote as sound judgment would dictate. We are subjected to conflicting arguments offered by orators and writers, truths and official figures offered by some and distorted by others—all interpreted in their efforts to influence votes. It behooves all of us therefore, regardless of our party affiliations, to keep our minds clear and make an earnest endeavor to restore our equilibrium if such has for any reason been temporarily unbalanced.

We are to vote November 8th primarily on national questions, but only indirectly, by indicating our choice of those to whom we entrust the increasingly important and complex job. We must consider well before we mark that ballot if we would accomplish that which all patriotic Americans, both Republicans and Democrats, hold sacred. Surely in defending our country from the attacks of those who have and are conspiring against the security of our institutions, our traditions, our financial integrity and in fact against the very foundations laid by our forefathers, both Republicans and Democrats can find a common cause. The two great parties have been attacked from within and it is against this we must defend. Masquerading as either Republicans or Democrats certain Senators and Congressmen have become so bold as to defy their respective party leaders and have presented and supported a series of legislative bills which in their becoming law would retard any constructive measures which we now have and which are now so essential to our economic recovery. In some instances the very vitals of our economic and governmental structure have been threatened.

This is the issue transcending all others at this critical time. You have to choose either those who have made possible such attacks and who abetted them and who now approve them, or you may choose those who have protected us from such viciousness by an exhibit of unselfish able and devoted leadership without parallel in recent history.

We know full well that President Hoover will continue his program of wisdom and economy; that his understanding of the great problems and his fair dealing and devotion will not vanish. He will continue to be the safe pilot who has brought us thus far in the great struggle.

The present is no time for experiments and, furthermore, it will never be time for us to allow those who showed their colors of mutiny in the last Congress to assume command.

This appeal is to patriotic Republicans, to patriotic Democrats, and also to those who are just plain patriotic, who would be guided by sound logic rather than be influenced and temporarily swayed by a series of distorted statements, and promises impossible of fulfillment—empty bids for votes.

President Herbert Hoover deserves your vote of confidence and support and he also deserves to have non-mutinous crews in both the Senate and the House. "Hoover and Safety" could well be a common slogan for the patriots in both parties.

Yours for America,
CHARLES E. KREMER.

Narberth Theatre Notes

Although the Narberth Theatre's features are all worth seeing in themselves, the short subjects are of considerable interest this week. This week-end, for instance, including Saturday's matinee, Laurel and Hardy are entertaining in "The Chimp."

The feature this Friday and Saturday nights is "Reserved For Ladies," starring Leslie Howard. Saturday matinee's attraction is "The First Year," with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell.

Next Monday and Tuesday, "Bears and Bees," a Silly Symphony, is on the program with "Tom Brown of Culver," which is highly recommended for children and adults, too.

A Soviet Russia travelogue and a Van Dine mystery story are on the program next Wednesday and Thursday with "Speak Easily," the latest Buster Keaton—"Schnozzle" Durante comedy. This picture, based on Clarence Budington Kelland's Saturday Evening Post Story, is very amusing.

BUSINESS BITS

The old Narberth Fire Hall, Haverford near Narberth avenue, has been leased for C. P. Cook, its owner, to Daniel Cooperman, proprietor of a pharmacy at 7141 Germantown avenue, Chestnut Hill.

Robert J. Hobson and John C. Cain, who have connected with the firm of Edwin M. Poole & Co., interior decorations, at 31 N. Narberth avenue, are now carrying on the business for themselves, under the name of Hobson & Cain.

Next week an ad in this paper will give interesting "Foot Facts and Foot Notes," second in a series prepared by noted chiropodists and pediatrists, published by courtesy of B. G. Constantine, of the Goodwear Shoe Repair, 252 Haverford avenue.

Merion Boy Scouts

Thank Ticket Purchasers

The thanks of the Merion Boy Scouts were extended this week to their friends in Merion and Narberth who helped them with their moving picture benefit to be held at the Narberth Theatre, November 7 to 11, inclusive.

The money they raise in this way each year is used to supply many needy people with baskets of food at Christmas time. Anyone desiring to help in the work by purchasing tickets to the Narberth Theatre next week may send thirty-five cents for one or one dollar for three tickets, in care of the Merion Boy Scouts, Merion.

The Junior Auxiliary of St. Luke's and the Children's Homeopathic Hospital will hold a meeting on Friday morning, November 11, at 10.30, at the home of Mrs. George J. Ouerbacker, 306 Kent road, Wynnewood.

Wohlert Urges 50 Per Cent
Cut in Borough Tax Rate

In the issue of "Our Town" dated October 14th, I note that the Finance Committee of Narberth Council decided upon a reduction of two mills and possibly more in the Borough Tax Rate of 1933.

This utterly inadequate reduction of taxes is absurd under the present conditions. The taxes should be cut in half—nothing less than that should satisfy the taxpayers. To say that this cannot be done is ridiculous. Most business houses have been compelled to cut their expenses from 50 to 75 per cent., and many individuals have been compelled to cut their expenses 90 per cent.

Inasmuch as it probably will be impossible for the Borough to collect 100 per cent. of the taxes, they may as well face the condition openly and make such substantial reductions as would be consistent with the times.

One of my friends dealing in a necessity has registered a reduction in his output for the month of September this year as compared with September four years ago when his income was $329,000. His income this year in September was $22,000, or approximately 7 per cent. of that which it was four years ago, which, of course, means he is doing business at a loss;
he has no actual income. That condition is probably repeated in almost every household in Narberth on a smaller scale. Why temperize; why not cut the budget 50 per cent., not two mills?

Our Borough Council is elected to represent us, and it no doubt has a strong desire to carry out our wishes, but unless we take the trouble to tell our Councilmen that we want a reduction in taxes, they could not reasonably be expected to reduce the taxes, as they have a right to assume that we want all the luxuries to continue, such as weekly ash collections, frequent street cleaning, up-to-date repairs of streets and many other fine things. We may have to be satisfied with ash collections twice a month and may have to buy more ash cans, and we would certainly have to get along without quite so much police protection, trimming the expenses in every department.

In 1926 taxes were boosted 50 per cent., but no one complained. Business was good; everybody was working; all of us had an income; besides, the increase was necessary in order to balance the budget.

If we want a reduction in taxes now, it will be quite necessary to send a delegation to Council at its next meeting, or write letters to Council at once and tell them what we want. The next meeting of Council is on the 14th day of November, and it is probably at 8 o'clock in the evening in the Town Hall. If you have anything to tell Council in this connection, you will have to be present.
If you are not present, Council has the right to assume that you are both willing and able to pay the taxes as levied at present.

Next year's budget and our tax rate is fixed at the next meeting of Council on the evening of November 14th, 1932.

Modern Poetry is Eighth Library Reading List

"Modern Poetry" is the eighth reading list prepared by the Library for the benefit of those parents who may wish to systematize their reading.

1. "Common Sense of Poetry," by L.
A. G. Strong. An interesting little book, written for the average fair-minded reader, who has not paid much attention to poetry, who has perhaps a prejudice against it, but is prepared to be interested in it if anyone can show him it is worth his while.
2. "A World Anthology," by Mark Van Doren. Translations in English of the world's best poetry arranged by countries. Where great poets have been omitted it is because no adequate translation is available.
3. "Modern American Poetry," by Louis Untermeyer. A critical anthology with biographical material on each author. The most recent editions bring information down to 1930.
4. "Modern British Poetry," by Louis Untermeyer. Similar anthology to the American with critical and biographical information about English authors.
5. "The Book of American Negro Poetry," by James Weldon Johnson.
Selections from the work of forty negro writers beginning with Paul Lawrence Dunbar and including William S. Braithwaite, Countee Cullen and others. Very fine preface discussing contribution of negro to poetry, music, and the cultural arts.
6. "Collected Poems of Emily Dickenson." Included because in her thought and style she was a forerunner of the new spirit.
7. "Collected Poems of E. A. Robinson. All of his poems from "The Man Against the Sky" to "Tristram" and "Cavender's House."
8. "Nicomachus," by E. A. Robinson.
This is the latest collection of short poems from one who is considered to be the greatest living American poet and to be compared only with Emerson and Whitman.
9. "Collected Poems of Robert Frost." A poet with the power to express through native scenes universal thoughts.
10. "Collected Poems of Masefield," the poet laureate of England. Also "The Wanderer," by Masefield, a weird combination of facts, statistics, and poetic fancies based on the history of that loveliest and most marvelous of ships.
11. "Fatal Interview" and "The King's Henchman," by Edna St. Vincent Millay. Miss Millay is the leading woman poet of the present time, and a lyricist of great beauty.
12. "The Princess Marries the Page." From a manuscript just recovered of a one-act play written in 1917 for presentation at Vassar College.
13. "John Brown's Body," by Stephen Benet. A novel in varied verse form, containing many stirring lines.
14. "White April," by Lizette Woodworth Reese. Lovely poems against a Maryland background by winner of the Shelley Memorial prize.

Second Edition Published
A second edition of "Quakers and Indians," by S. Lucia Keim, of Dudley avenue, Narberth, has just been published by the John C. Winston Company. Miss Keim wrote the story for the children of the Germantown Friends' School to dramatize. She directed a group of 250 children of the school in a pageant based on the story which was given last June in honor of the 250th anniversary of the landing of William Penn. Requests for the story by many of those who saw the pageant led to its publication in book form.

New Strawbridge & Clothier Store at 8th and Market Sts., Phila., Dedicated Monday

The new Strawbridge and Clothier store, at 8th and Market streets, Philadelphia, was dedicated Monday with special displays for visitors throughout the day and exercises in the evening. At 6.30 o'clock, 1000 invited guests were welcomed at the dedication dinner on the sixth floor; from thence they adjourned to the eighth floor for the dedicatory exercises.

These included several numbers by the Strawbridge and Clothier chorus, under the direction of Dr. Herbert J. Tily, who organized it 27 years ago, and the dedication address by Morris L. Clothier, chairman of the Board of Directors. An address also was made by Dr. Tily. A similar dedicatory program was held for the public at 7.30 o'clock on Tuesday night in the eighth floor salon.

From the dedication address by Mr. Clothier there were three features on which comment was made by Dr. Tily: First. The principles of the Founders.

Second. The obligation of service to the public.

Third. The necessity of producing this service through associate workers.

To put it more explicitly, the Founders based their mercantile activities and those of their associates on sound principles of merchandising and on the adoption and use of every progressive method of store operation. To this end they practiced and taught the need for day-by-day study of consumer demand; for the development of the fullest market knowledge; for clear, true statements, through the medium of salespeople and the printed word concerning the merits, uses and value of every item of merchandise offered for sale, and for an acute appreciation of the dignity and privilege of customer contact with its obligation of efficiency and courtesy.

These responsibilities to the public could only be carried out through the medium of well-chosen and well-trained helpers. Out of this realization grew pioneering methods in employe control, reward and training.

This public service has a larger significance, however, than the simple one of supplying a customer's wants. It creates wants by the legitimate and reasonable stimulating of desire through the media of well-written advertising, artistic display and intelligent selling. When desire, so stimulated, results in increased sales, consumption is augmented, the wheels of industry turn faster, more wages are paid to more workers, who in turn become larger consumers. This way lies prosperity. Experience only need be cited, and no argument is needed, in the autumn of 1932, to prove that the slackening of demand slows the wheels of industry, reduces wages, increases the ranks of the unemployed and brings in its train all those other sinister factors which betoken depression. Who can say how much worse conditions might have been in the last three years if merchants had ceased their aggressive selling methods?

Cars Collide

The automobiles of William C. Griffith, 303 Chestnut avenue, and Mrs. George White, of Kenilworth road, figured in a collision at Essex and Chestnut avenues, Narberth, last Thursday afternoon, but no injuries resulted. Damage to the cars included a badly bent front fender and axle and to the steering of the sedan driven by Griffith. Mrs. White hurried away to keep an appointment, leaving her car on the sidewalk, while Mr. Griffith was shaken up but unhurt.

Brookmead Farm Guernsey Herds Took Many Prizes at Shows

Frank Graham Thomson, owner of the Guernsey herd at Brookmead Farm, Devon, recently completed the most successful show season this herd has ever had, winning eighty ribbons, including six championships in five of the strongest shows in the East, namely, Bryn Mawr, Timonium, Md; Springfield, Mass; Brockton, Mass; and Far Hills, N. J.

At Far Hills, N. J., Brookmead was particularly outstanding, winning three championships with their senior bull, junior bull and senior yearling heifer. Brookmead's Supreme, a yearling bull, bred and shown by Mr. Thomson, was the biggest winner, taking first prize as well as the Junior Championship at Bryn Mawr, Springfield Mass, and Far Hills, N. J. thus stamping him as probably the best young bull this year.

Good Thriller at Egyptian This Week-End; Other Top-Notch Shows Due

Based on a prize short story by Richard Connell, "The Most Dangerous Game," at the Egyptian this Friday and Saturday, is unique in theme and treatment, and recommended as a thrilling good story, well adapted and filmed. Fay Wray and Robert Armstrong, whose ship is lured to destruction on Zeroff's mysterious island, are hunted like animals, by a polished but mad Russian sportsman. There is an interesting match of wits, when real opposition to the hunter of human prey is offered by a wild game hunter. Recommended for family entertainment by an association of six national women's clubs.

The week-end's program includes an "Our Gang" comedy and a stage attraction—Shepp's trained dogs and monkeys.

Saturday's matinee feature picture is "The Texas Bad Man," starring Tom Mix and his horse Tony; it is one of a new series of exciting and worth-while Westerns. Also to be shown at the children's party is Chapter 4 of "The Last of the Mohicans." And, of course, Shepp's trained animals, and "Our Gang."

A return showing of "Palmy Days" brings the popular Eddie Cantor back to the Egyptian next Monday and Tuesday. This is the hilarious comedy about love, astrology and money in a large bakery, that has been recommended as worth seeing three or four times.

"Congorilla," at Cynwyd, next Wednesday and Thursday nights, is an authentic and intensely interesting travel story filmed by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson. It will also be shown at a special after-school matinee Wednesday.

"Horse Feathers," this year's effort of the four Marx Brothers, is considered a worthy successor to their "Animal Crackers" and "Monkey Business." It is crazily funny, guaranteed to make anyone, for an hour or so, forget his candidate lost the election. It's due at the Egyptian next Friday and Saturday.

Other features this month are, in their order, "Guilty As Hell," Richard Bennett in "Madame Racketeer," everyone in "Grand Hotel," the John Gilberts in "Downstairs," Wheeler and Woolsey in "Hold 'Em, Jail," and Chevalier, MacDonald and Ruggles in "Love Me Tonight."

Rummage Sale Postponed

Electric Rates STAYED Down

"Were the utilities unregulated, as is true of private enterprises," says the Alabama Public Service Commission, "if they were free during prosperous times to fix rates without regulatory control, then they could with justice, perhaps, be subjected to the price fluctuations suffered by private business during economic depressions."

"If, however, they have not been permitted to earn more than a fair return during prosperous times, this fact must be given due consideration when we deal with their rates and their rate of return during periods of general depression."

Since 1913 the Philadelphia Electric Company System's total average electric rate has been reduced 41.4 per cent. Between 1913 and the end of 1929 commodity prices soared—skyrocketed! But electric rates went the way of periodic reductions.

Today the cost-of-living is still 44 per cent above 1913 levels... That contrast, we believe, adequately tells its own eloquent story.

Norristown High Has Formidable Eleven

County Seat Gridders Won From Lower Merion Last in 1918

MAROON WON 25-2 IN '31

The Lord promised Joseph seven years of plenty before the seven years of famine set in. Lower Merion has had her seven years of plenty so far as football games are concerned with Norristown High School, and Coach Pete Lewis, of the Blue and White, is of the opinion that the seven years of famine are about due the Maroon.

The whole world was at war when Norristown won her last effort against the football players of Lower Merion High. Back in 1918 the lads from Norristown won from the Maroon and White, and though only five games have been played since then, the Blue and White teams from up the way have been blue, just blue.

Pete Lewis, present coach of the invaders, was a member of the team that defeated Lower Merion 19 to 7 during the war year. L. M. only played four games that year, and the only victory of the quartette was an upset over Radnor, 14 to 7.

In 1919 the Maroon went to Roosevelt Field and walloped them 20 to 12, and were in return walloped by the populace with a choice assortment of brickbats, etc., to the extent that relations were called off until 1928, when the two natural rivals again resumed their ancient feud.

Since 1928 Adam's teams have defeated Norristown four times, 13 to 0, when Al Mendes and Tip Peters rang around the visitors; 18 to 7 in '29, when Captain Perk Scott scored two touchdowns and Tip Peters another; 53 to 0, when John Pennypacker and Zip Frazer ran wild, and last year, when Grauch, Taylor, Sauters and Hood crossed the goal line to win, 25 to 2.

But this is Norristown's year. If you don't believe it, just drive up to the County Seat and ask the question. Every man, woman and child who knows what a football is for is supremely confident that the Norristown squad will ride rough-shod over the Merionites tomorrow.

The confidence felt by Coach Lewis and his assistants has been absorbed by the members of the team, and the players have been going through their drills and games like a veteran outfit that is sure of itself under all conditions.

There is little doubt but that the Norristown team is stronger this year than last. Morgan and Monastero offer plenty of diversity in a backfield that boasts speed, brainwork, and strength. Morgan is the threat, but Monastero can be relied upon in case the speedster fails to make gains.

The line is light (looks heavy with its extra padding, which gives the impression of broad shoulders and heavy hips), but it is aggressive and does not give too easily.

Lewis has a good team, dangerous withal, cocky and confident. Lower Merion, beware!

Advocates Of Prohibition Reform Will Vote For PENDLETON For Congress

--They Will Not Be Hornswoggled Out of the Fruits of Their Hard-Earned Victory By Allowing the Dry Ditter to Take Control of the Situation

And Now It Must Be Told

Ditter is Dry—indubitably, convincingly and absolutely DRY.

Let there be no question or doubt about that important statement.

For a while it was thought he was sincere in his claim that he had espoused the Wet cause, although those who knew him well always said utterly no faith could be placed in his political promises.

Previous to that, it was well known that he was a confirmed Prohibition advocate, speaking his dry piece on every possible occasion, but when the Republican Organization of Montgomery County selected him as its Congressional Candidate, he gave out statements which indicated he had changed his base on the subject and that he could be counted on to co-operate in effecting a revision in the present vicious liquor legislation.

The voters are now warned they can place no dependence in any such assertion.

If specific proof were needed it is available, among other things, from what happened in this very Borough during the past week.

The gentleman held forth at the Narberth Theater Hall, talking to the 125 men and women who had assembled to hear his views on public questions, and in not one instance did he commit himself on anything, nor in any way, shape or form.

Instead of doing so, he regaled his bewildered auditors with nauseous doses of outlandish oratory, probably the worst diatribe which has ever been attempted in these parts.

From all of which it can be deduced that Mr. Dry Ditter has a very low estimate of the intelligence of Narberth voters and it can be said for the same Narberth voters that most of those who heard him are ready to return the same kind of compliment and with a vengeance.

Let us all get our eye on the ball and keep it there:

For long years this neighborhood has fought the Prohibition question right into the corner where it now is, each election gaining new converts to the cause, until the climax was reached when the Borough went Democratic in favor of John Hemphill for Governor, an out-and-out Wet candidate, running against a Dry Republican.

It was the most complete political upset ever recorded in our annals.

It demonstrated our people were sorely tired of the vice and the evil and the peril which followed in the wake of this Prohibition monstrosity; that they were sick and sore with all its hokum and humbuggery and hypocrisy, and that they were determined to hit it hard every time it showed its dirty head.

And when the Literary Digest sent its straw ballots here, hundreds and hundreds of them, 80 per cent were returned in favor of Absolute Repeal and quick modification, and in that impressive manner our voters again registered their strong convictions on the subject.

All the time we were waiting for a candidate for Congress to come along, for it is only in Congress that the real start for reform can be made, and we were anxious to have our great County in the vanguard in ridding America of its Abominable Amendment.

Shall We Go Down the River

And what a fine lot of minnows we would be if we were tricked or lured into any such scheme-net as this!

Don't let them tell you that in due course he will swing along and ultimately do what he is told to do and that he will vote at the right time the way he is told to vote.

That kind of bologna must have no place in our menu—we seek an upstanding straight-shooter, a man willing to go through a hell-fire to support his honest beliefs, no strutter, nor shifter, one thing today and another thing tomorrow—we want a man in whom we can put our full and undivided faith and trust, not in any sense a rank opportunist, a man who will do what he promises to do because first of all he is personally impressed that it is the sincere and square thing for him to do.

We are not going to be taken for a ride—we have had to do before with those who were neither fish nor flesh, and it is high time for us to know our onions.

But because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold, nor hot, I will begin to vomit thee out of my mouth.—The Apocalypse, 3:XVI.

No, sir, Mr. Dry Ditter, we have traveled a long trail on this thing and now that we see the sun coming grandly over the hills we refuse to take any chances with you as our first National Representative.

We are going to stick right to our mutton and we are going to finish thoroughly the job which was so splendidly started, and that job is the repeal (repeal, sir) of the contemptible Amendment and the immediate revision of the Volstead Act.

And we are not going to ask any help at this late stage of the game from those who never helped us before and who see a fine chance of advancing their own artful aims and ambitions by pretending they are now on our side, while still holding hands with the other side, and let there be no mistake about how we all feel about that kind of snide business.

We are going to support Philip C. Pendleton, Esq., because we know, without shadow of doubt, where he stands, where he has always stood, and his complete freedom from any trace or taint of buncombe or political expediency.

We know of his sound intellectual integrity, his substantial training for a Congressional career, and we know that he is convinced, to the point of righteous indignation, that our Constitution has been befouled and that because it has, our national social and economic scheme has been perturbed with serious and shocking effects.

Bore deep into what this man Pendleton has to offer the County—a solidly balanced lawyer out of the offices whence went Owen D. Roberts to the U. S. Supreme Court—for years an instructor in finance at the University of Pennsylvania, his Alma Mater, and hence well set on the national panorama of commercial facts and figures he ought to have as he goes to bat in behalf of the wide and varied interests of Montgomery County.

Right In on the Inner Circle!

Elected as a Democrat he will go into a Congress which will be predominantly Democratic, and won't that help some, as our formidable young man fights his way with the odds in his favor and a real break in getting things done?

Tariffs won't be any cross-word puzzle to him—Montgomery's Industries should heartily welcome his advent—no nursing or bossing will be needed as he goes Washington way, altogether the type which his County ought to have and which it will have if the men and women who are on record, by their repeated votes, as standing for the things for which he also stands, will stand by him, their Flag-Bearer, as they cast their ballots next Tuesday.

There it is, the open and shut question, the Dry Ditter or the True-Blue Pendleton—that is the issue stripped to its marrow—nothing else—the old battle once again, but this time we have the ball pretty far down the field, and only a bad fumble or a double-cross can possibly lose the game.

What say, you, then: Are you going to forego everything which you have gained; are you going to yield all the ground which you have won; are you going to be palavered into believing that Prohibition is only a "minor" issue, or are you going to carry on the same as you have been doing, and let the whole wide world and his wife know that nobody's going to make a monkey out of you?

We'll bet on you, faithful to the finish, and if you will only be yourself, fighting it through to the last ditch, passing up, with scorn, the choice pack of bed-time stories which are already on tap for your particular benefit, then, and only then, will we have an end to these machine maneuvers and the County of Montgomery will be blessed in the land.

PUT IT OVER FOR PENDLETON—AND PUT IT OVER WITH A GREAT BIG BANG!

Philip C. Pendleton lives in Bryn Athyn. Associated in the law with Montgomery and McCracken. Since 1922 on the faculty of University of Pennsylvania. In his student days there had his fling on the Varsity football team and was no mean hand at wrestling. Several academic degrees attest that our Candidate has a great deal more than physical mettle. Member of American Legion. To the forefront in the activities of his home town. A prodigious worker and a skilled debater. Recently fought it out with Upshaw, the Prohibition Presidential Candidate. In his early thirties and has three children. Just seems to be a made-to-order man for Montgomery's Representative in the House. Look the line-up over and draw your own conclusions. Ask yourself which of the lot you would choose if the man had to work for you and you alone. Altogether the sort you have always said should be in public service. Don't miss the opportunity of putting him over.

America Can NEVER Go Freely Forward Until and Unless This Prohibition Business is Settled—And NOW is the Time to Settle It!
